

Christopher Dunlap - Hunt Coordinator

Born and raised in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, Chris grew up hunting and fishing every chance he could. He took up the sport of archery at thirteen years old and has been hooked ever since.

After graduating from high school, Chris enlisted in the U.S. Army, serving as an Infantryman for 16.5 years, with duty stations in South Korea, Texas and Georgia. Chris is a combat veteran, completing three deployments to Iraq in support of the War on Terrorism and several other deployments to Kuwait.

After retiring on Veterans Day 2012, Chris relocated to Lampasas, Texas to manage a local firearms and archery pro shop, where he spent 4 years educating archers and other community activities. Chris and his wife now run several businesses from their ranch, which include an Equine Rescue, an AirBnB, a Retreat Center for Chaplains and their Soldiers as well as a feed business. He also guides hunts for whitetail and exotics on several ranches in their area.

After learning about Aaron's story, LIMB-itless Outdoors and his vision for the A3G Initiative, Chris reached out to LIMB-itless Outdoors and the A3G Initiative, volunteering his guide services and organized the inaugural grant hunt on one of the ranches he guides on.

Chris believes, "I am very blessed to have access to a large amount of private hunting land that many do not have. I enjoy sharing that access and my services to allow deserving AMP-licants the opportunity to harvest the deer of a lifetime."
